An Appeal for the Family of Mrs. Albert Griswold.

When the death of Mrs. Albert Griswold was announced, THE INDEPENDENT referred in the briefest possible terms to the sad circumstance, hoping that the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling Company would take upon itself, tardy though the relief might be, the maintenance of the orphan children. It has moreover de ferred its present purpose, also with that in view. Since the letter from General Manager Townsend, offering to bear the expenses of the funeral of the poor dead opponent in the abdomen. mother, provided they should not exceed $100, it has seemed that the time has C. R. Radel, a newspaper worker, for- come to act, and The Independent proceeds accordingly. It is known, to most people, that the late Albert Griswold physician happened to be in the party, and it was fortunate for all concerned lost his life in an heroic and successful attempt to save the property of the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling Railroad, and lives entrusted to its care. The invalid wife died the other day in destitute circumstances, leaving six children, one maimed and the other nearly blind, whose few relatives are wholly unable to assume any additional burdens. It does not seem proper that the children of Albert Griswold should become subjects for the infirmary, and THE INDEPENDENT, to be practical, desires to create a fund ikely to be a german, and the one fol- for their benefit. The Youngstown Hill Case.

The preliminary hearing in an uncleasant case from Youngstown Hill, in which Thomas and James Miller and John Reese were charged with beating, wounding, ill treating and otherwise assaulting Mary and Maggie Kopp and Sadie Rowe, was commenced in Justice's court this morning. The testimony in detail is unfit for publication, but it went to show that the girls started out on New Year's eye, two of them dressed in male attire, to have some fun. They encountered the three boys on a street in the village and, during a brief tussling match in sport, two fell from the sidewalk into the mud in the gutter. No one was injured in the least. A VERY PECULIAR CASE.

AN AFFRAY HERETOFORE GUARDED WITH SECRECY

Merry-making on New Year's Eve With a Bloody Termination-Fortunately a Physician was Among the Party-Use of Names Refused.

A highly interesting and exciting affair, and one which might have resulted in a tragedy, was enacted in a Main street saloon at a late hour on New Year's eve. A party numbering about half a score of convivial spirits were making merry over the exit of the dying year, and everything was moving along as placidly and merrily as a few marriage bells. when the hilarity of the occasion was arrested by a controversy which arose between one of the party and a man who was not a member of the coterie of choice

A duel of words, at the first mild, grew to angry and defiant altercation, and the one who belonged to the company took hold of the other man. Almost as quick as a flash the latter quietly drew a knife.

Intense excitement naturally prevailed when it become known that the dastardly act had been committed, and the wounded man's condition was the first thought of everyone in the room. that such was the fact, for the injured man bled so profusely that it was feared death would result from hemorrhage. The medical man fixed the patient up, however, in good shape, and a murder was averted; but the wounded man was unable to go to work for four days. As might have been expected, owing to the prominence of most of the com-pany, inviolable secrecy was agreed to by every man there. But The Indepen-DENT had an emissary in view and hearing in the character of its reportorial little bird, which was perched in a secret hiding place near the transom-hence the neat little story has eventually been infused with animation.

FT. WAYNE CHANGES.

An Unfortunrte Blow at the Prosperity of Alliance. The officials of the Fort Wayne railroad, says the Pittsburg Times, expect to do away with Alliance as a lay over point early next spring. For the past two months they have been running trains through to Crestline, 189 miles from Allegheny, as a matter of experiment with their locomotives. The change will be made when they are ready to move all through freight trains over the Ohio connecting bridge. When this is done Conway will be the eastern end of the eastern division of the Fort Wayne railroad. Alliance will not be a terminal point for crews who run out a stop to Crestline, 189 miles. There are about 70 freight crews between Allegheny and Crestline, and most of these live in Allegheny, but if Conway is made the eastern terminus it is expected that they will move to Conway. Superin-tendent Starr, of the Fort Wayne, said yesterday, when asked about the change: 'We have been contemplating it for some fime, and a couple of months ago we called for volunteers among the men to run trains through to Crestline. There will not be a man thrown out of employment by the change. It will take just as many men for the through run as it does at present. Instead of making thirty-five trips a month from Allegheny to Alliance, they will make about twenty trips between Allegheny and Crestline. There is only a little blacksmith shop at Alliance, and that will not be moved, so that it will make no great change at that point, except that the men will not lay over there. Crestline has always been the end of the division, and Alliance was

The MacQueary Trial. Special Dispatch to The Independent CLEVELAND, Jan. 8.-Arguments in the MacQueary trial was resumed this morning. Rev. Mr. MacQueary consumed a large part of the forenoon in defending his position as set forth in his book. Dr. Bates then followed for the prosecution, and demanded the conviction of the respondent. Mr. M'queary again addressed the court at the afternoon session, and said that if convicted he would still continue to preach his beliefs just the same. The arguments were finished at 3 o'clock, and the court took the case under consideration. No verdict will be rendered for two or three weeks, as there is an immense amount of testimony to be gone over. Mr. MacQueary, it is understood, anticipates conviction.

Canton people feel very hopeful as to the ultimate happy outcome of the Dueber troubles, which is well.

The misfit individual who is paid for representing this county in the legislature, is on hand at Columbus, so it appears, to draw his salary.

THE INDEPENDENT, in asking for general contributions to a fund for the relief of the children of poor Al Griswold, hopes that it will meet with the success which attended its previous efforts of the same characa David Bennett Hill begins his message to the Naw York legislature by saying: "In entering upon the seventh and last year of service as chief executive of the state.' And he closes by saying: "I cannot conclude my last annual message.' The governor will now go into training for 1892.

In spite of all the verbiage with which the case has been surrounded, the trial of the Rev. Howard Mac-Queary is upon but two essential points. First, has he the right, as an Episcopal minister, to question the virgin birth of Jesus; second, bas he the right, as an Episcopal minister, to question the material resur-

The Stark County Horticultural Society labored yesterday with the problem, ought the fair grounds be moved? After due consideration the society voted in favor of selecting a new location, and in the course of the debate Mr. William Essig arose to state that for one he was working to put the new fair ground on the Massillon-Canton road, with a view to cultivating the fair patronage from the west end, which to a large extent supported the county fairs. Mr. Essig, it is almost needless to say, has the proper idea. The building of a street railway between the two cities is something likely to be pushed through quite soon, and if the fair grounds were to be established between the two cities, that project would assuredly be hastened. Then the Ft. Wayne railway, in easy distance of any eligible site on the Massillon-Canton road, could be made use of, and altogether, it would look like folly to select a location on any other than this main artery of the county.

THE INDEPENDENT trusts that ex-Coroner J. A. Schaefer, M. D., is farm so that he might have a horse, some quite well to-day, after his severe mental labors of yesterday, in constructing his verdict in the Bolivar wreck case. After several weeks ef careful investigation, in which he was assisted by able attorneys, Dr. Schaefer pronounces with official certainty that "the deceased came to their deaths by reason of coach in which deceased were riding falling from trestle werk." The verdict illustrates the great usefulness of such a fuctionary as a coroner and the general utility of paying him a large sum to conduct inquests. The reader will please note that Dr. Shaefer did not say that the deceased have heard these croakers say that at the came to their deaths by reason of heart failure, neither did they come to their deaths by reason of lack of breath, but he especially states, and in such a manner as to forbid succassful contradiction, that it was "by And while this croaking was going on, reason of coach in which deceased were riding, falling from trest'e ing an ample supply of dry goods and groceries to be charged against a credit work." Great is Schaefer!

A year ago I prepared what I then sup-osed and desired should be my first and ast annual address as president of this association, in which I endeavored to show that we need on the farm not only the best bone and muscle, but the best brain as well; that what is needed to make farming a success is industry, energy, judgment, intelligence and economy sufficient to run any other busines or profession-nay, a judgment and intelgence sufficient to comprehend all the other occupations. And it is my desire, on vacating the chair to-day, to leave off as I began, with an earnest effort to duce the smart boy and the intelligen girl to "freeze" to the farm.

With the same application, accompa nied with good common sense there is no occupation that promises surer succes than that of the farmer; and with that success comes a wealth of health, con tentment and satisfaction, which sheds halo of glory over the face of the farmer compared with which the hollow-eyed anxious, haggard look of the average bu siness man forms a ghastly picture. rusalem, "Peace on earth and good will I might go far beyond the limit of time allotted to such papers, by custom, in re-citing instances that have come under my wn observation of young men who have by industry and economy, with nothing aid them but their good sense and will ng hands, bought small farms, built uses, enriched their lands and surounded themselves with not only the omforts of life but also with many of its uxuries. While other young men have shrugged their shoulders and said "You can't do it." Can't do what? "Why, buy a farm and pay for it by working corner grocery after a hard day's worl in a dingy shop, when they hadn't enough money in their pockets to pay for a pound of coffee or a plug of tobacco, and were just waiting for the crowd to disperse so hey could "stand the storekeeper off" intil next pay-day for seven cents' worth of sugar and fifteen cents' worth of cigars. their comrade and former co-laborer, who had remained on the farm, was buy-

Boys, it can be done. It is being done by fifty per cent. of the young men who honestly try it, while not ten per cent. of those who go to the city ever succeed in getting themselves homes of any kind. A few days ago two thousand ung people were making merry over the good wages they were getting on Dueber Heights. To-day not one of them knows how they shall make a living during the

> Let the admonition go out from this society to-day, "Boys make of yourselves good farmers; girls, make of yourselves good housekeepers for farmers' wives." But we suggested a year ago that the farmer, in order to become entirely master of the situation, as he is entitled to be, and to secure for himself just recompense for all his toil, must become something of a politician as well as a farmer. I would not have you think that Congress can make your farm pay. It is said, "God helps those who help themselves." Congress can surely do no more. But the fact seems to have suddenly dawned upon > the minds of a large number of farmers that while the politicians have been pat-ting them on their backs and telling them what nice men they were, that they were the "true nobility" of the land-that they were "the great bulwark of our institu tions," that they were "the very life and essence of the state," he has been carefully winding his slimy coil around them preparatory to swallowing essence, bulwark, nobility and all. This awakening has been such that in one short year the farmers have virtually taken possession of the government in several states, and it only remains to be seen whether the farmer in this new role, of "governor," shall be equal to the

In South Carolina the Farmer's Alliance has "settled the hash," so to speak, of Wade Hampton, and Pennsylvania and Kansas have relegated Quay and Ingalls to silent realms of departed greatness, but it remains to be seen whether the Alliance shall be brave enough to hurl back with them the political methods, the rot and corruption, upon which the Shylocks fed and fattened Boodle and beer have been the ruling elements in the political campaigns of the past, and as a result, legislation has generally been for boodle and beer and against the laboring masses.

Will the new party be able to run their campaigns without boodle? Will it be able to withstand the cunning of beer and

In the campaigns of Seward and Chase and Giddings and Lincoln they talked of morals and justice and right. When the south pointed to the Dred Scott decision, Gerritt Smith said. "There is a higher law" than human enactments. Senato Ingalls says that in the political campaigns of to-day the golden rule and the calogue do not enter.

Will the farmer's party, when it has taken charge of the government, be able to substitute the "higher law" for the laws which now pander to the vices of the people and rob the masses for the benefit of the few? Will it be competent to re-store the Golden Rule and the Decalogue to a place in American politics? Or, will it rather attempt to put its dollars against the dollars of the corruptionists and boodlers of the old parties? Will it be able to grant the right to woman to protect her home by her ballot? Will it be able to turn the billion of dollars now wasted over the counter for drink every and thereby establish a home market better than was ever dreamed of by any tariff politician? Or will it continue trying to stop "overproduction" while millions of our people are suffering for even the necessary comforts of life! Fellow farmers, I cannot answer the questions I have asked; but I think I know that by all the light of history, the old parties can never again put the politics of the country into harmony with the divine government-they are not headed

And I shall risk the prediction that if the new party shall not be built on a substructure of morality and intelligence; if it shall attempt to put the dollars of the morality in the farmer against the dollars of the morality is chall ignored the Higher nopolist; if it shall ignore the Higher Law and the Golden Rule, then the whole fabric must totter and fall, and the last estate of the farmer will be worse than the first.

But if the farmer in his role as politi cian, shall build a party whose every corner and angle and pillar shall res upon a foundation of morality, intelligence and virtue, then our "government of the people, for the people, and by the people, shall not perish from the earth."

The paper was pleasantly commented upon by Mr. McGregor, Mr. Pontius, Wm. H. Essig and Mr. Nash. Mr. Nash approved on the ground that many critisisms of the condition of the agriculturists were so blue in nature, that it was a wonder that any young man was willing to remain on the farm at all. He liked the idea of putting the case fairly and

Mr. Berlin, from the committee on orchards, reported everything in good condition, and the trees full of buds. The good old saw, which predicts a good crop when the sun does not shine on New Years day, was quoted in favor of the fruit product of 1891. Mr. Essig and Mr.

It bleaches with but slight "earth ing up," and very quickly, usually in five or six days. Likely to prove a most val uable variety for both early and midwinter use." We are satisfied that it fully comes up to Mr. Henderson's report.

juror at Canton this week. John Williams and wife, of Mineral Ridge, O., has been visiting relatives in this vicinity the past week. The marriage of Mr. Timothy Ramsey to Miss Annie Ralston, both of this place was consummated on New Year's day by his honor, Mayor Reed. We extend our hearty congratulations and may they live a long and prosperous married life is the wish of their many freinds. The true facts with regard to the arrest of well known young men of this place, and whose case has been much distorted for sensational effect, are as 'ollows: On New Year's eve, three of our young girls took upon themselves to have some fun, and two of them accordingly dressed in male attire and started out for the above purpose. It was while they were in the most public place in our village that they were met by some of our young men, who playfully tussled with them, without having any evil intent whatever; so the whole thing in a nutshell is, the girls started out for some fun, and they got it. So far as the people here being enraged at the sport, as published, we are safe in saying there is nothing whatever of it But our people are enraged against the wilful misrepresentation of Youngstown Hill. True, Constable Shepley came out and arrested some of our most prominent young men, whose discharge at their hearing is earnestly expected. The constable's entire posse, so glaringly reported, consisted of Thomas Hagan. Suffice it to say, the newspaper in question has not made any friends in this neck o-thes woods by its sensational reports.

TERRIBLE STORY OF CRIME

A SUICIDE CONFESSES TO A MURDER COMMITTED YEARS AGO.

J. M. C. Clark, a Baptist Minister, Assisted by Carrie Moss and Effic Taylor, and Quickstiver in a Pie-Body Swollen and Would Hardly Go in the Coffin.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 8 .-- The following terrible story of murder, criminal sexual relations and suicide is told here: In 1886 Elder J. M. C. Clark, colored, pastor of the Baptist church in Dayton, and Carrie Moss (now his wife) murdered Clark's first wife at Yellow Springs, O. She was given soaked parlor matches, boiled dog button, rough on rats, and, these failing, arsenic and quicksilver, in a pie, from which the woman died. The body was so swollen that it was with difficulty gotten into a coffin; but, as the husband was a minister, no suspicion was aroused. The woman Moss was then living in criminal intimacy with one Taylor (white) and the latter's daughter, Effie, assisted in the murder. The girl Effie became acquainted with one Dr. Steinberger, who got her money, some $2,500, away from her, by worrying her. Monday she suicided after telling the story of the Clark-Moss crime. She said she was afraid to tell before, for fear she "would be hung between two negroes," but "had been in hell" ever since. Steinberger swore out a warrant against Elder Clark and his present wife, and they were arrested. Yellow Springs is red-hot and threats of lynching are

The Engine of a Passenger Train Falls Through a Trestle.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 8.-A passenger engine on the Newport News and Mississippi Valley road plunged through a trestle three miles east of Stepstone. The engineer, Ed Hilburn, of Huntington, W. Va., and the fireman, Ed Mc-Neil, of Kilgore, Ky., were instantly killed. The trestle broke while the train as running at a low rate of speed, and this saved the lives of the passengers. The engine, tender and express dropped through the breach and the wreck took fire. The body of the engineer was dragged from the wreck, but McNeil's could not be extricated, and was consumed in the flames.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

A Democratic House for the First Time is Twenty-Eight Years.

SPRINGFIELD, ILLS., Jan. 8. - The house, which is Democratic for the first time in twenty-eight years, was called to order at noon yesterday by Secretary of State Pearson. R. N. Ramsey, Democrat, was elected temporary speaker and a motion that the Democratic caucus nominees be made temporary officers of the house was carried. The house then proceeded to the election of a permanent speaker. Clayton E. Crafts, Democrat; David Hunter, Republican, and Dr. H. H. Moore, Alliance, were nominated. Mr. Crafts was elected. The Democratic caucus nominees were made permanent officers. The senate, which is Republican by a majority of three, was called to order at noon by Lieutenant Governor Ray. The caucus nominees of the Republican senators for offices were by vote made the temporary officers of the senate. Senator Matthews, Republican, was elected president

A Letter That Has Caused Consternation. TOPEKA, KAN., Jan. 8.—The Alliance Advocate yesterday published a letter written by Congressman Turner, of Kansas, to Frank McGrath, president of the Farmers' alliance, in which Turner offers $5,000 if he can be elected senator to succeed Ingalls. The letter came to Topeka during McGrath's absence in the south and was opened by his clerk and by some strange and unaccountable way fell into the hands of Dr. McLallin, who published it. The letter has caused consternation among the leaders of the alliance, who declare McGrath must re-sign as president, but which he refuses

Speaker of the House an Ohio Man. DENVER, Colo., Jan. 8.—The general assembly of the state of Colorado was convened at noon yesterday in this city, and after the completion of organizing of its two branches adjourned. Senator M. B. Carpenter, of this city, was chosen president of the senate and Hon. J. W. Hanna, of Montezuma county, was elected speaker of the house of representatives. Mr. Hanna, the new resentatives. Mr. Hanna, the new speaker of the house, is an Ohio man, having been born in Cadiz, in that state, in April, 1843. The vote of the organization of both houses was on strictly party lines.

Congressman McCreary's Vigorous Talk on the Bearing Sea Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Representative McCreary, who was formerly chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, and is now head of the minority of that committee, thinks it is pretty near time the seal fishery dispute was approaching settlement. "I think," he said yesterday, "that the time has arrived for Mr. Blaine to apply his vigorous policy. The matter must be settled between now and spring. The preservation of the seal depends upon prompt action now. Mr. Blaine should take a firm stand and let this dallying go no further. He must adopt a vigorous policy or else must adopt a vigorous policy or else Agent Royer is in charge, and whose reback down altogether. If he is going to moval for lack of capacity to meet the maintain our right to protect the seal—a right which was never disputed when Russia exercised it—he must announce to Great Britain, in terms not to be misunderstood, that she must arbitrate upon the questions which he presents, not those proposed by Lord Salisbury, or the United States will quit negotiations and enforce their rights."

THE SENATE AND HOUSE.

Messrs. Daniel, Plumb and Hiscock Spoke on the Financial Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—In the senate Wednesday the drawing for terms of the two senators from Idaho resulted in Mr. Shoup drawing the lot which gave him the term to expire on March 3, 1895, and Mr. McConnell the term which expires March 3, 1891. The morning hour was devoted to routine business and at its expiration the financial bill was taken up. Mr. Daniel then took the floor and spoke in favor of free coinage. Messrs. Plumb and Hiscock also spoke at length on the bill, and after a brief executive session the senate, at 5:50, adjourned.

House Proceedings. After some disscussion the house passed senate bill increasing from fifty to seventy-five the number of army officers who may be detailed to military colleges. Several other bills of minor importance were passed. The house then went into committee of the whole

Charles Rose Fatally Wounds Mollie Welsh and Shoots Himself.

METROPOLIS, ILLS., Jan. 8.—News of a terrible tragedy that occurred near Bay City has just reached here. Charles Rose, a young farmer, aged 27 years, has been paying attention to the daughter of a neighboring farmer, Miss Mollie Welsh, aged 18. Rose was forbidden to visit Miss Welsh by her parents and last Sunday, while the parents of Miss Welsh were absent at absent at health and their fellow workmen were absent at health and their fellow work church, Rose visited the house and induced the young woman to take a walk with him. They had proceeded but a short distance when he asked her if she names are Patrick Moran, Edward was willing to die for him. She replied yes, and thereupon he drew a pistol and fired, the ball taking effect in the girl's face, inflicting a probably fatal wound. Young Rose then returned, locked himself in a room and blew out his brains.

Ingalls' Only Hope.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Senator Ingalls, since his return from Kansas, is very reticent concerning the situation there. He remarked yesterday to a friend, however, that it all depended on whether the alliance could solidly unite their forces, which they were now try-ing to do. If they succeed, of course he could not be re-elected; if they failed, his chances were excellent.

Heavy Firing Reported in the Direction of the Hostile Camp-Indians Have Attacked a Distinton of Troops or Fired Upon a Passing Train-Those Now in Rebellion Represent All the Reservations in Dakota-Over Four Thousand Indians Come in to Get Their Meat.

PINE REDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 8.-Late last night Gen. Miles received official information of the killing near the nostile camp of Lieut. Casev. of the Twenty-second infantry, who had ventured too near the savages. He was shot through the head. Gen. Brooke, who sent this startling information, also reports heavy firing in the direction of the hostile camp, and it is supposed that the Indians have attacked a division of the troops or fired upon a passing train. Lieut. Casey was one of the brightest young officers of the army. The Indians who are now in rebellion represent

All the Reservations in Dakota. There are many Cheyennes among them, and scouts say that bands of Arapahoes have joined the hostile force. Troops of the First infantry, from California, left Rushville for Pine Ridge yesterday. They will arrive here to-day. Yester-day was beef issue day and over 4,000 Indians took a hand in the slaughter of the 105 steers which were issued. Many of the hostiles came to get their meat and when they received their share they galloped back to the village with their Winchesters slung over the pommels of their saddles.

MILES' ULTIMATUM.

Pine Ridge Indians Must Surrender and Come in Immediately.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 8.-Gen. Miles has sent his ultimatum to the Pine Ridge Indians who are with the hostiles. Jack Red Cloud, Big Road, High Horse, Lone Bear, Line Hawk and the five other Indians who came in from the hostile camp to hold a pow-wow were allowed a briefer conference than they had expected. Gen. Miles plainly told them they must come in and surrender; that he was not here to listen to their complaints; that they would be allowed to go to Washington to make them after the trouble was arranged here. The braves mentioned above stated that nearly, if not quite, ail of the Pine Ridge Indians were desirous of peace and wanted to come back to the agency. If the Pine Ridge Indians conclude to come back it will greatly reduce the war party, now numbering 4,000. After another short talk with these Indians they set out on their return.

STATEMENT DENIED.

Change of Agents to be Made at Pine

Ridge, but at No Other Agency. WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.-The published statement that all the Sioux Indian agents are to be supplanted by army officers is denied at the interior and war departments. There will be a change made at the Pine Ridge Agency, the seat of the Indian war, where Indian present emergency, has been recommended to the president by Secretary Noble and Indian Commissioner Mor-gan. It is understood that the president will make the removal at once, and that Capt. Pierce, an army officer of much experience in Indian agency matters, will be detailed to take temporary charge of the agency until the present troubles are ended. There is no probability at all that any of the other Sioux agents will be removed.

Settlers Call for Arms.

CHEYENNE, WYO., Jan. 8.—Two calls for arms, to be used for the protection of settlers from Indians, were received at the governor's office yesterday. Marauding Sioux are in Convers county, not over 100 miles north of this city. The arms at the disposal of the executive were exhausted two weeks ago. Major Stilzer, of the state guards, has been sent to Lusk and Douglas to investigate, and if he thinks the situation serious the militia will be ordered out at once.

LA GRIPPE LEADS.

The State Board of Health of Ohio Files Its Fifth Appnal Report.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 8.—The state board of health has filed its fifth annual report with the governor. La grippe, which was prevalent as a widespread epidemic during the latter part of 1889 and the first part of 1890, caused a rise in reports of sickness. January, 1890, the largest number of deaths were reported of any month since the board's creation. Diphtheria and typhoid fever have prevailed, epidemically, in a number of places. A detailed report is given of a single outbreak of smallpex luring the year. This was in the family of a rag picker in a small village in Wyandot county. The state was Wyandot county. The state was menaced by smallpox on Pelee Island in Lake Erie, but by prompt co-operation with the Canadian health authorities the disease was confined to the island. The report contains an account of a number of cheese poisoning cases, which were investigated by the board. The report concludes that manufacturers are in no wise to blame. A complete list and short history of all he water works in Ohio is contained in the report, and the fact stated that thirteen towns were authorized by the legislature last year to make expenditures for water works.

ON TRIAL FOR HERESY.

Rev. Howard MacQueary Pleaded Not Guilty and the Trial Goes On. CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 8 .- The trial of the Rev. Howard MacQueary, of Canton, O., for heresy, began before the ecclesiastical court of the Episcopal diocese of Ohio, in the chapel of Trinity cathedral, yesterday. Rev. Dr. Bates appeared as attorney for the prosecution and Judge J. H. MacMath was Rev. Mr. MacQueary's legal adviser. Dr. Bates presented his case by reading several passages from Rev. Mr. MacQueary's book, "The Evolution of Man Queary's book, "The Evolution of Man and Christianity," wherein he expresses doubts as to the truth of the popular version of the conception, birth and resurrection of Christ. When asked by the court whether he pleaded guilty or not guilty of the charge of heresy, Rev. Mr. MacQueary said he pleaded not guilty. The prosecution offered MacQueary's book as evidence, and the latter guoted the Scriptnres, the Nicine ter quoted the Scriptures, the Nicine creeds and decisions of the privy council of Great Britain. Rough on Rats and a Gun PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 8.-Ray Lyon, of Corning, O., committed suicide here Tuesday night. He called upon Dr. Lodig to find the exact location of his heart, then proceeded to a gun shop, priced several revolvers and, after hav ing one loaded, deliberately shot him-self through the heart. A few hours later the citizens of Second street were horrified to learn of another suicide this time J. N. Lutz, the most promi nent photographer, who took "rough on rats," which caused his death at noon yesterday. No cause assigned.

Destruction of an Old Land Mark. ASHLAND, O., Jan. 8.—The old Methodist church was burned yesterday. This edifice possessed the loftiest steeple in the county. WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The committee from the Allegheny County Bar association called at the White House yesterday to urge the appointment of Judge Acheson. They were accompanied by Congressmen Dalzell and Bayne. While the president would not promise to appoint Acheson, the committee believe he will do so. The supporters of the other candidates are losing no time in pressing

Death of Ex-Attorney General Devens. Boston, Jan. 8.-Charles Devens, as sociate justice of the Massachusetts supreme court and attorney general of the United States under President Hayes, died suddenly of heart disease. Judge Devens had been ailing for several days, but was not thought to be seriously ill until 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when a sudden change in his condition was noticed. A physician was hurriedly summoned, but before he arrived Judge Devens was dead. Judge Devens was in his seventy-first year.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Senator Mc-Pherson, of New Jersey, has been confined to his house for the past few days suffering from a slight attack of gastric fever. His condition is not serious. His physician has advised him to remain indoors until the weather changes. This fact probably gave rise to the report that the senator was seriously ill.

publican senators and members of the house of representatives met in joint caucus at 12 o'clock yesterday to nomi nate a candidate for United States senator to succeed James Donald Cameron. The caucus was called to order by Senator George Handy Smith and the clerks of the two houses acted as secretaries. There was a pretty full attendance, there being but eighteen votes short of the full number when the roll was called. Mr. Taggart, of Montgomery county, moved to postpone the caucus until the 15th inst., in order to give members a chance to go home and see their constituents and find out their wishes. This was voted down and Mr. Taggart

Senator Thompson, of Dauphin, nom-inated Senator Cameron in a brief speech, reviewing the senator's career. Senator Gobin, of Lebanon, seconded the nomination in an eloquent speech, in the course of which he said he was authorized to say that Senator Cameron is for the election bill and always has been. The nominations were then closed, and the roll was called. The result was 134 votes for Mr. Cameron. Chairman Smith then formally declared

[Special Correspondence.] WASHINGTON, Jan. 8,-The American woman is seen to very good advantage in the Capital City. Of course she is seen to good advantage everywhere, but here we see her more strikingly than elsewhere in her modern characteristic of independence, self assertiveness. Here in Washington the American woman ap-

WILL GO IN ON THE FLOOR pears to know rather more about taking care of herself than she does in other cities, develops greater facility for getting what she wants, going where she wishes and ascertaining what she desires to know.

We had a very good example of this but a few days ago, when four or five hundred women school teachers from New York and New England descended upon the capital in all the haste, eagerness and jollity of an excursion party. They arrived about dark, and the manner in which they surrounded the hotel registers, wrote their names with a businesslike air and held the poor clerks up sharply with demands for the best that could be had, was a surprise to many beholders. "Aha!" said one of the clerks at Willard's hotel, after the last of his newly arrived guests had been disposed of, "that is the hardest job I ever undertook in this house. I have handled many parties of men and women in my time, but for knowing what they want, and sticking to it till they get it, commend me to an excursion of schoolma'ams."

After dinner that night the streets of the capital took on an unwonted air. Snow and slush were everywhere, but the women, by pairs, trios, quartets, groups and parties, were out doing the town. They went over to the White House grounds, and browbeat the watchmen at the gates into giving them admittance. They stopped at the basement of the treasury, where a sentinel sits just within a great barred door—one of the many guards of the hundreds of millions of dollars in Uncle Sam's vaults -and endeavored to persuade him into letting them in. For once they failed. They trudged down toward the monu ment in order to get a new view of the greatest of obelisks by moonlight. They surrounded the big equestrian statue of Andrew Jackson, and threw snowballs at the bronze head of the hero of New

Attracted by the brilliant spectacle of a moonlit capitol at the other end of the avenue-a capitol which seemed but a few blocks, though of course it was more than a mile, away-many of them walked thither and made the new terrace and the grand old eastern portico, on which so many presidents have taken the oath of office, resound with their laughter. Not till near midnight were the streets cleared of these eager, romping, curious, merry, but very pretty and very proper tourists.

Bright and early next morning they were on the move again. The Capitol and the monument were the first objects of attack, as they are with most strangers within our gates. Their visit to the national state house proved to be a mild sort of sensation. They overrun the big building like birds on a blackberry bush. In the senate chamber, as the telegraphic dispatches have already chronicled, they startled the good old statesmen by stamping with their feet in an impatient effort to hasten the beginning of the session, like the gallery gods in a theatre noisily expressing their wish to see the curtain rise. After the senate had begun its deliberations the visitors applauded what they liked, and now and then shook their heads in disapproval, in defiance to all the rules and in utter indifference to the rappings of Vice President Morton's gavel and the lady from Vermont arrived we told her warning glances of that patriarch and pink of senatorial propriety, Capt. Bas-

In their rambles about the Capitol these pretty schoolma'ams were much like all the other American women who come here—that is, they were not inclined to pay out their good dollars for the services of guides, but were much more prone to ask questions of every man they be he justice of the supreme court, tainly, madam, says I, 'but you are lame, and I don't see how you could ever make it.' than any other party of visitors ever did in so short a time, and that the history lessons of the coming year in the schools of New York, Brooklyn and thereabout will be embellished by many illustrations drawn from personal ob-crypt, in which it was the intention of the forefathers to deposit the remains of Washington, and the still lower and gloomier precincts in which state prisoners were once confined, to the famous whispering gallery at the top of the rotunda, and even to the lanthorn at the very feet of the Goddess of Liberty. True, this last mentioned altitude is forbidden ground, and a strong, locked gate bars the way from the top of the dome; but it was not a very high gate, and the more adventurous and athletic of these fair visitors boldly mounted it.

In one particular these schoolmistresses exhibited a characteristic which is common to their sex who visit the Capitol. I have noticed in my daily ramblings about the great building that the average woman is determined to disregard all rules, defy all doorkeepers, and go in upon the floor of the house. She observes common looking congress men, pages and other persons entitled to the floor passing in and out unchallenged, and naturally concludes that she may do likewise. The doorkeepers are nearly always busy with the requests of those persons who wish to see members. and at times the entrances are left practically unguarded. Even if the sentry observe the woman invading the secret precincts, she is generally within the door before he, polite, good natured soul that he is, can succeed in convincing her that she must retrace her steps.

Thus it happens that the big speaker and many of the members occasionally look up and see two or three women standing in the rear of the hall, notwithstanding the fact that no living woman has the privilege of the floor, and smile as they watch the doorkeeper po-litely inviting the intruders out. While it is true that no woman has the right to enter the house during its sessions, I am reminded that one woman, and only one, may enter the senate whenever she wishes. This favored one is the wife of Senator Reagan, and her right is found in the fact that she is her husband's private secretary, drawing a salary of $100 per month from Uncle Sam.

Women visitors to the Capitol are always much interested when they perceive one of their sex sitting in the press gallery, hard at work with pencil and

A WOMAN'S FEAT IN THE MONUMENT paper. There are many women in Washington who write for the press, and some of them earn large incomes too, but only one has entree to the press gallery. This lady, Mrs. Burke, is the regularly accredited and very industrious correspondent of a western paper, and she takes her place among the large number of newspaper men and manages to get all the news in which her employers are interested, but the fact is she meets with no very cordial welcome at the hands of her fellow workers. The newspaper correspondents here have always been opposed to letting women into the gallery, and while they couldn't keep Mrs. Burke out under the rule, they have managed to exclude her name from the list of correspondents printed in the congressional directory. These school mistresses of whom I have been writing saw Mrs. Burke at her work in the senate gallery, smiled approvingly at her, and I dare say gloried, one and all, in her spunk.

It would be easy to write two or three columns about the manner in which our schoolma'ams explored every nook and cranny of the city of Washington. paid their respects to the president and the members of his cabinet, interviewed officials of all degrees of rank and usefulness about the details of their work and left behind them in snow and air and the memory of all with whom they had come in contact one large, insistent, persuasive interrogation point. But beore going any further with this pleasant recital I want to retell a story which was told me by the man at the Washington monument, and which is fairly illustrative of what a woman will do when her predominating propensity, the curiosity of sightseeing, is fully roused.

"The schoolma'ams have rode up and down, and walked up and down, taken views from the top and bottom and of the interior with their kodaks and flash lights," said the man who stands at the door of the big obelisk, "but the queerest case we ever had here was that of a woman from Vermont, who came one day last summer. It happened that for several hours that day something was wrong with the steam pipes in the power house, and the elevator wasn't runnin nor the electric lights which illuminate the interior of the shaft. When our how things was, and advised her to come again the next day, when the steam would surely be all right, and she could be taken up. But she wouldn't have it that way. She said she had come all the way from Vermont, was going home that night, and must see the top of George Washington's monument or her trip to the capital would be nothing but a failure. Couldn't she walk up? 'Cer-

"if you'll just give me a chance." 'But,' A JUDGMENT REVERSED. I argued, 'the interior of the monument is as dark as pitch. Look up and see; it's a great hole of blackness, with a mere speck of light barely visible at the top.' 'Well, can't you lend me a lantern?' 'Haven't a lantern about the premises. 'A candle, then.' By this time, you may imagine, I was interested in the woman I liked her spunk, and so I went down to the engine room and brought her un a candle. She thanked me for it, took it in her hand, seized her crutches in a determined sort of way, and slowly disappeared in the darkness overhead. Well, sir, in about three-quarters of an hour she came down again, radiant and tri-late Commodore Garrison and ordering a new trial. The amount involved is away up in the millions, and the case has been before the court since 1884.

In 1879 Griggs contracted with the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad Company to build a line from Toledo, O., to Wheeling, W. Va. For his work the contractor was to be paid $15,000 of the first mortgage bonds, and $15,000 in full paid up capital stock for every mile built. Griggs for his bond and stock was to furnish rails, fastenings, frogs, switches, nish rails, fastenings, frogs, switches, etc., lay tracks and ballast, and equip with rolling stock, water tanks, depots and shops as specified in the contract.

"When the time came for building the road, many subscribers to the stock failed to pay up, and the railroad company failed to go ahead. Griggs, in 1880, pany failed to go ahead. Griggs, in 1880, went to C K. Garrison, and, in order to obtain the money, sold him the first mortgage bonds of the company at 85½ with interest, also giving him as a bonus for the entire issue $7,000 of the full paid capital stock for every $1,000 in bonds, for which Garrison was to supply the necessary money to build. Subsequents necessary money to build. Subsequently, upon Commodore Garrison's demand, Griggs delivered additional stock to make up nearly two-thirds of all the stock, thereby giving Garrison control.

'In the trial that took place it was in evidence that two divisions of the road had been completed, from Toledo to Bowerstown, O., leaving the Wheeling divison with only work to the amount of $100,000 done on it. Griggs, in his testimony, stated that at this stage he called upon Garrison to furnish more money for completing the Wheeling division, or pay for the balance of the bonds, amounting to $500,000, but Garrison, having a formula of the company and the road refused to do either. As the commodore owned the majority of the stock, Griggs had to submit.

"Finding that he could not obtain the money to finish the road Griggs asked for an accounting, and, though the debt was acknowledged, the request was put off from time to time. At last an action was commenced to secure the accounting and the case was sent to Rastus S. Ransom as referee. After the case had dragged alang for some time Referee head, "my grandfather had no idea of Odell decided that the Garrison estate did not owe any money to Griggs, while on the other hand Griggs owed the estate $2,171,395.84 for the notes held by Gar-

"This was a genuine surprise to Griggs and his lawyers. The plaintiff carried the case on appeal to the Superior court, would have been something of a Republican himself if he had lived in those times. "My grandfather was an ignorant, foolish old man and a fanatic. He was an under gardener in the service of the notes, exchanged by Gar."

In case on appear to the Superior court, where it has been argued for a long time. On Monday the full bench decided that the referee's judgment should be reversed and a new trial ordered, and that Griggs should receive credit to the was an under gardener in the service of the notes, exchanged by Gar. M. Possart, who had always been a rison for bonds and which, with the instanch Republican, but was now acting terest from May 1, 1883, amounts to $2, 345,597.73. This wipes out the judgment against Griggs upon the note transactions and gives him alone a balance of did not know this, so he made a very $174,179.89.

Stark County Celery.

Stark county celery is rapidly coming into the favor and prominence of the perhaps better known Michigan product. J. A. Borst, of Greentown, is the pioneer in celery culture, and his great success has given to Stark county a distinctive reputation. His farm consists of seventyfive acres, on the ridge dividing the Ohio river and Lake Erie water sheds. Last year Mr. Borst set out a million and a half of celery plants, and found his prin-cipal markets in Cleveland and Pittsburg. The Stark county celery farms have be-come so well known that the census bureau of horticulture sent Special Agent Hall to Greentown recently to report the methods employed. Mr. Hall then stated that the Borst celery farm was the largest in the United States.

MRS. EMMA C. WERT. Death of a Most Excellent Wife and

Mrs. Emma C. Wert, whose funeral took place this afteroon, was born July 27, 1845. In 1871 she was married to her now bereaved husband, John B. Wert. As a wife she was faithful in all things to the interest of her husband. As a mother she was devoted to the welfare of her children. As a stepmother-for she occupied this most delicate position -she was a faithful and affectionate friend to the children of her husband placed under her care, and there is not one of them who will not rise up and

As a woman she was amiable, and of a gentle, kindly spirit. As a neighbor she was quiet, helpful considerate, and as a friend one to be trusted always.

She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and was an earnest, useful, Christian woman, devoted to the interests of the church of her choice and happy in association with its worship

Her fatal illness was protracted and painful, yet she endured her sufferings with wonderful patience. From the beginning she felt that she could not recover, but her confidence in God was such that death was robbed of its terrors. She could cheerfully say, "It is all right. I am ready for either life or death, as God wills." When the end came it was quiet as the closing of the

It would have been a great satisfaction to her husband and children to have had some words of tarewell before she died, but the mind was clouded and the kind words she would have spoken were left unsaid. But they have the satisfaction of remembering her kind and gentle words and ways while she was in health.

She was the mother of five children, two of which preceded her to the better land; a little daughter, less than a year old, and a son, the idol of her heart, age 11 years. She leaves a husband and three children who are sorely bereaved. They may be comforted a little possibly in the assurance that they have the sympathies and prayers of many friends. May God sustain them in this their great grief.

Bill Wanted a Holiday to See His Unch

There was to be a hanging at the county seat of a county in Illinois, and the night before the execution I stopped with a family about seven miles distant. Nothing was said about the matter until after supper, and then the man of the house said to his wife:

"You call Bill in, and we'll see what the stranger says about it."

No Photographs With This Story. Here is a railroad story which is related by an Atlanta man, who, however, deprecatingly waives aside the immortality which would attach to the publication of his name.

"I was handling the throttle on the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe in 1885," he said. "I had a fast express, and was nearing the town of Fort Worth one day in May of that year. We were behind our schedule, and were pushing the old steam hoss for all we were worth. So fast were we traveling that the telegraph poles looked like the prongs of a fine tooth comb. We were just rounding s long curve, when suddenly I spied a little child playing on the track not over 500 feet ahead. We always carried a stout leathern last a made fast to the tender. Without more ado I grabbed that lasso, and with a single throw circled it around a telegraph pole. My act threw the engrae and seven cars from the track and saved the little one-but killed 300 passengers."-Atlanta Constiably from shock. Inadvertently THE INDEPENDENT has occasionally mentioned Saloonkeeper Er tle, without including the Christian name Ed. This has led to some embarrassment to Mr. William H. Ertie, against whose high standing there is no danger of anything ever being said.

Local Democracy, that is the younger part of it as represented by the Y, M. D. C., celebrated St. Jackson's Day by indulging in a dance in Music Hall, last night. It was not, strictly speaking, a full dress affair, but the crowd was large and hilarity and good behavior held undisputed sway.

A Washington correspondent wires: The bill appropriating $75,000 for a public building at Akron, which passed the senate Wednesday afternoon, will now go to conference. The amount was reduced from $100,000, as it passed the house, and the conference will probably agree on the amount in the senate bill. A police officer returned yesterday afternoon from Clinton, where he recovered the silk dress which Lizzie Roberts, the domestic, had stolen from Jennie, daughter of W. H. Crooks. The girl had ripped the garment and intended to make into her wedding gown. The property being recovered, the girl was not arrested.

There is much unpleasant apprehension in Alliance about the dropping of that town as a Ft. Wayne lay-over point. The Review says: "Inasmuch as $150,000 at least have been spent by the Pennsylvania Company at Alliance in the last ten years in the way of improvements alone, it seems very singular that Superintendent Starr should state that a little blacksmith shop represents their possessions at this point.

Mr. A. Howells said this afternoon, when asked as to the nature of the business to be transacted at the meeting of board of trade executive committee this evening, that as far as he was aware it was simply to consider several letters from manufacturers seeking a location and probably suggest what answer should be made to them. There are no direct propositions yet under consideration.

The death of Mrs. Cecil, wife of the Rev. J. Cecil, of Navarre, occurred on the 8th inst. The funeral will take place on Sunday at 10 a. m. Services will be conducted by the Rev. B. F. Booth, D. Mr. F. A. Brown has spent so much time in explaining his connection with the Alaska Mining Company, of which mention was recently made in this paper, that to spare him further trouble, the facts are here stated: Mr. Brown was one of numerous local stockholders in the Alaska Mining Company, which paid dividends previous to 1887. After that the assessments came in with such regularity that Mr. Brown became sus picious and refused to pay. He next received notice that unless he met the assessments his stock would be sold. As he did not meet the company's demands, he supposed for several years that his stock had been disposed of, as the circular promised. He knows nothing further of the company, or the suit brought against the stockholders, of whom he does not regard himself

THE GRISWOLD FUND

Rapidly Swelling to Commendable

Proportions. The list of contributions, the most of them in small amounts, to the fund for the relief of the Griswold children, speaks more eloquently of the popular interest in the cause than any words that could be printed. THE INDEPENDENT is espectally glad to see the subscriptions coming in for fractions of a dollar, and people generally will think as much, for instance, of the twenty-five cents voluntarily deposited by little Warren Bar. and Reese James, who earned it every penny themselves, as of any single donations. It is a pleasure, also, to note that THE INDEPENDENT is not alone in this good work. Further contributions are invited, and may be left with the Independent Company. A GENTLEMANLY TRAMP.

BOSTON TO SAN FRANCISCO WITHOUT A SINGLE CENT.

The Dude Dead-beat Arrives in Massilion this Morning on the Root of a Car, and Talks for The Independent-H. P. Cooler is His Name.

Readers of newspapers generally are familiar with the fact that a fellow christened "the dude tramp" is undertaking to go from Boston to San Francisco and return in twenty-one days without a cent in his pockets-in other words. 'beat" his way the entire distance. His name is H. P. Cooler, and the journey was undertaken to win a purse of $5,000 from the Boston Globe. If successful, "the dude"is also promised a six months' gagement in a Boston dime museum, and likewise expects to be liberally compensated for his heroic task by that champion of "sports," Richard K. Fox.

Cooler arrived in this city at 2:50 this morning, coming through from Chicago on the New York & Chicago limited, his stateroom being on top of and between two yestibule cars, where he was not detected by the trainmen and also did not suffer greatly from the cold. An INDE-PENDENT reporter found him this morning at the Empire Hotel, where he had just finished a warm breakfast gratuitously furnished by Mrs. Green, the land-

The distinguished guest is a bright, keen young man, 19 years old, dark complexion, clear regular features, and possessed of more than ordinary intelligence. He stated that his occupation for a number of years had been to work about hotels at leading summer resorts, where money was plenty and his bur-dens easy to bear, and lived through the winter by his wits in the large cities. He has been on the journey eighteen days, has until Monday night at 11 o'clock to reach Boston, and felt positive that he would win, barring unforseen and unavoidable accidents, such as railroad disaster, or something of that

He wears the same suit of clothes and overcoat as when he started, and one glance at his garments is sufficient proof that he is entitled to active membership in the National Peripatetic Association. One button remained on the overcoat which was new when he started, pins doing service in their stead, and his apparel as an entirety would almost be spurned as a present by the rag man. The fellow was cheerful and fresh looking, however, and in answer to a question as to what he proposed to do with the $5,000 if he won it, replied promptly that he intended to start forthwith and obtain an education. "The dude" was watched by the reporter getting on the platform in front of the mail car of the 7:45 a.m. train east, and while this is being read is probably going over the Allegheny mountains on his way to victory.

THE CANTON ASSIGNMENT.

Prospects for Resumption Not Quite So Bright. Canton, Jan. 8.—The assignment of the Deuber watch case company is assuming a serious aspect, for the people of Canton at least. Mr. Howard Douglass, the assignee, since his arrival here has been holding long conferences with Mr Charles D. Rood and the members of the board of trade of this city in an endeavor to adjust matters. Mr. Douglass has been interviewed, the result of which casts a gloom over our citizens.

"When will the works start up?" was the question put to him.
"I cannot answer that question at present;" replied Mr. Douglass, "as it all depends on the action of Canton citi-

"Will you, as assignee, start the works?" "I most certainly shall not." "If started at all, how will the matter be accomplished

"The citizens of Canton will have to raise a sum sufficient to raise the assignment and take the affairs out of my hands.'

"How much money will be needed?"
"At least $200,000," was the reply.
"If this amount is not raised what will be the result?" "The factory will in all probability be sold to the highest bidder.'

Mr. Rood was also seen and asked if it was true that he was crowding Mr. Dueber to the wall. "There is not a shadow of truth in it." was the reply. "On the other hand I have done everything possible to assist him. It could not be true because the money Mr. Dueber owes me is not due."

The following paragraph is from the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette: "The boom of Senator Sherman for governor of Ohio, we are told, is only a foil to enable the McKinley movement to develop its strength. To begin with, the great Ohio senator does not wish the governorship, and has not, and probably will not, give his consent to it. Matters may change before the convention shall be held, but as they now stand Mr. McKinley is the Republican candis date for governor, the nominee of the people of his party."

THE INDEPENDENT hopes to see the day-and in so saying it has only a love of exact justice in its mind, when suit will be instituted, in the name of the orphan children of Al Griswold, against the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling railroad. There has been no settlement between the two parties, and it is not likely that the positive want of the family would ever have been recognized by the strong corporation, but for the disinterested personal thoughtfulness of Agent Frank Sladden. When suits are daily brought and decided against the railroads, in favor of persons injured through their own in discretion, it must strike the average reader that the least that could be done, for the children of the man who lost his life, to save a frightful wreck, and probably the lives of others, would be to have them brought up as it would have been the wish of their parents to have them reared, at the expense of the company which was the beneficiary of this act of heroism. Common humanity ought to lead the company to voluntarily assume a burden so trifling, when compared with that from which it was saved. Had the Griswold children any influential friends, it is reasonably certain that they would have never known want, from the day of the death of their

The Pittsburg Times is of the opinion thas Mr. MacQueary has spoiled his case. . Says The Times:

"The Episcopal church is proud of its liberality in matters of doctrinal belief, but will hardly feel complimented by Mr. MacQueary's reason why he should be acquitted of the charge of heresy-to avoid the peril which would otherwise come upon the church in this transitional age. That means: 'If you convict me, the verdict will stand against so many of my brethren that the denominational ranks will be dangerously thinned.' MASSILION, - - OHIO. In this plea he gives his case away, not basing it upon its merits, but hoping to carry it on a plea of expediency. His attitude in this is not heroic, and in nine cases out of ten would react against him before a clerical jury. He would have stood better in the eyes of all who oppose doctrinal tests if he had not assumed it; for if he is sure he is right, expediency should not enter into his defence. Truth and freedom to hold the truth are more than any church or creed."

FAMOUS HERESY TRIAL.

REV. HOWARD M'QUEARY DEFENDS HIS POSITION.

He Predicts That the Views Set Forth by Him in His Book and in the Pulpit Will be Generally Adopted Before the Church Not to Find Him Guilty-Widespread Interest Aroused.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 9.—The famous trial of the Rev. Howard MacQueary for heresy before the ecclesiastical court of the Episcopal diocese of Ohio is now at an end, all but the decision of the court. Rev. Mr. MacQueary made a long argument in defense of his position, and predicted that the views set forth by him in his book and in the pulpit would be generally adopted before the dawn of the twentieth century. He also declared that if expelled from the Episcopal pulpit he would continue to preach the doctrines concerning the conception, birth and resurrection of Christ, but he begged the court, for the sake of the church, not to find him guilty be cause he feared damaging results would follow such an action in this transitional age. His object in writing a book was not to create a sensation, but to, if possible, assist in

Conforming Christianity to Common Sense and nineteenth century thoughts. In closing with the final reply to the prosecutor, he said the church and the prosecutor were dogmatists and that the latter admitted that the council of Nice did not insist upon virgin birth and demanded that Rev. Mr. MacQueary be declared guilty, because he was being tried by a court of to-day, and not that things from the Scriptures, and then advised his hearers not to believe them. Rev. Mr. MacQueary rather anticipates case is arousing widespread interest among all denominations of church

BASE-BALL GOSSIP.

Con Mack, an honest and faithful a player as ever breathed, lost $500 in Buffalo stock.

Pitcher Doran, of the New Haven club, says he will not play with that club next season.

The Brooklyn Players' League Club owes John Ward $2,000, and Manager Charles Ward $1,500.

The Cleveland club did not have a single player stockholder-and yet was not more successful by reason of that Larry Twitchell thinks he can pitch ball better than ever and will probably occupy the box altogether next season. The consolidated Pittsburgh club will have twenty-one players to dispose of, not counting James McCormick and Jay Faatz, Larry Twitchell and Darby O'Brien are a few of the many players stick to Al Johnson. Ground Superintendent Jack Manning has received orders to keep the Congress street grounds, Boston, in the best of condition for next season. Jocko Fields hasn't been heard from since J. Palmer O'Neill told him that instead of a $3,000 salary next season he would be lucky to be asked to sign for

Whether the era of peace and good will has arrived is still open to question. There can be no doubt, however, that we are in a period of most disgusting and entirely needless crawls.

Manager Hanlon has filed an application and secured the charter from the courts of Hudson County, New Jersey, for the incorporation of the Pittsburgh Athletic Club, the new name of the consolidated Pittsburghs.

Manager Tom Loftus, of last season's Cincinnatis, has not signed an 1891 contract. And certainly he was not, and can not now be reserved by the Cincinnati club. This puts it out of the power of any organization to discipline Loftus, who is his own man.

The League threats of eternal blacklistment of all players who should aid A. L. Johnson in his scheme to start a new league don't go, except as a bluff. The League wouldn't dare blacklist a player for such a cause. They might squeeze him a bit, however. Ned Williamson denies most emphatically that he gave away the Johnson circular to the Chicago Herald, as reported. He would have nothing to gain by such a course, as he has no reason to curry favor with the League people. He is going into business shortly with a friend in Chicago.

Ewing is decidedly anxious to make room for his brother John in the New York consolidated team, but Louisville has a claim on him which may require some cash to loosen. Still, Day and Spalding, the real owners of the consolidated club, are sufficiently indebted to Ewing to go to some expense in humoring his caprices.

"There is no doubt in my mind," said Lawyer J. E. Bruce, who has charge of the Cincinnati Players' League Club, the other day, "but that the League will be playing ball on the old grounds on an equitable basis, and all talk of building new grounds are vain and idle boasts-bluffs, so to speak. There is no other down-town property available."

"Had not the gentlemen who invested their money in the new league been warned, their position to-day might excite some sympathy. But they were made to clearly understand the situation and a programme was outlined for them which they promptly disre-garded, and now nearly all of them are busy preparing themselves for a genteel squeeze. It is idle, therefore, to waste sympathy upon them. What they wanted was experience, and they will get

There is great rejoicing among those members of the defunct Chicago White Stocking ball club. It was learned that Messrs. Spalding and Addison had closed the deal whereby the property of the brothers passed into the possession of the League club. Mr. Spalding gave Mr. Addison the sum of $18,564.88. This is the net amount after the deduction of the money due the players. The sum is to be divided among the stockholders of the dead club, each receiving 60 per cent. of the face value of his stock. When the transaction was closed Mr. Spalding tendered Mr. Addison and the ex-shareholders season tickets for next year. The brotherhood is closed permanently in Chicago.

MUSICAL NOTES.

Miss Adele Marra, a prima donna, has written an opera which has been produced at the Teatro Renach at Parama. Two prominent playwrights are at work on new comedies which Sol Smith Russell expects to produce next season.

It is stated that Pauline l'Allemand, the operatic soprare, has resumed her professional duties and that she has appeared with great success in San Francisco with the Hess English Opera Com-

Paul de Janks exhibited his new keyboard at the meeting of the Pennsylva nia Music Teachers' Association in Philadelphia. The new invention made a deep impression and its merits were Berlioz' "Damnation of Faust" was recently given in Berlin under the direction of Karl Klindworth. Berlin papers speak highly of the care shown in the preparation of the work and the skill displayed by the conductor.

The opera-goers at Ghent must be altogether too fastidious, as great dissatisfaction is said to have resulted from a recent performance because the prima donna's voice was so small that it could not be heard and because the bass had

Shooters who try their guns or new ammunition for pattern and penetration will find no cause for complaint if they can put 70 per cent. of shot in a circle three feet in diameter at forty yards distance. Seventy per cent. of 1% ounce standard shot should be for No. 5, 139 pellets; for No. 6, 171; for No. 7, 228; for No. 8, 314, and for No. 9, 467 pellets.

BASE-BALL WAR ENDED.

The Sale of Chicago's White Stockings Closes the Conflict. The sale of the Chicago White Stockings to Mr. Spalding removed the last vestige of the base-ball war from the local field, and the cranks are once more happy and ready to gather around the standard next year.

It is doubtful whether Chicago, howver, will enjoy much of a boom in the National game until the world's fair is over. Next season the people will hardly have recovered from the effects of the war and it will require the greater part of the season to turn them back to the game. The following year will be election year, which always affects base-ball. Then comes the world's fair year, which, if history repeats itself, will be a miserable base-ball year locally. The base-ball business is different from any other in the line of amusewho have signified their willingness to ments. Theaters and racing clubs derive a great part of their support from the transient population of a city. Not so with base-ball. It lives upon the patronage of the simon-pure crank, who is found daily wending his way to the park to breathe "curses not loud, but deep," at the poor umpire and yell words of encouragement to the members of his team. Base-ball depends for its support upon the local enthusiasm and pride which draw supporters to its standard.

A stranger with no marked sympathy for one team or the other can derive but little pleasure from a game of professional base-ball. Hence during the fair year the local management will derive but little benefit from the mass of people who crowd in here, while it will suffer by the increased rush of general business which will keep the cranks closely to their desks. During the Centennial at Philadelphia base-ball was almost lost sight of and the club then which had expected a big season almost starved to death. A great deal will depend on Anson whether next season is to be a good one locally or not. Chicago sighs once more for a champion team, and if Anson can give her one the old enthusiasm which made this town at one time the best base-ball center in the country will be revived. If the team makes but a poor showing the League people must wait until after the world's fair for the expected boom.-Chicago

The Winnings of Great Horses. Of the forty-five three-year-olds that won more than $5,000 last season Tournament stands first, with $89,755 to his credit. Of the four-year-olds Salvator, with five races and $30,650 won, heads the list, with Tenny a good second, his eight wins enriching his owner $23,205, while Eon is third, having won nineteen races and $20,020. The others come in the following order: Teuton, three races and $14.070; Castaway II., eight races and $13,335; Diablo, eight races and $11,000: Cassius, four races and $10,-400; My Fellow, twelve races and $9,605; Raymond G., eight races and $8,830; Meridan, nine races and $8,451; Reporter, six races and $8,185; Philosopher, seven races and $7,950; Eric, five races and $8,935; Fides, two races and $5,885; Madstone, seven races and $7,590; Loantaka, four races and $7,555; Rhono, four races and $7,410; Senorita, four race mon, $2.00@3.25; lambs, $5.50@6.50; veal calves $6.50@6.75. and $7,380; Tipstaff, nine races and $7,280; Glochner, nine races and $7,105; Blue Rock, eight races and $6,600; Sam Wood, six races and $5,878; Tanner, eight races and $5,761; Long Shot, eight races and $5,332; Arab, six races and $5,250, and Lotion thirteen races and $5,125. The five-year-olds are headed by Los Angeles, with seventeen races and $19,650 won.

Tuneful and Amusing.

"Poor Jonathan," as presented at the Chicago Opera-House, is a comic opera replete with catchy music, excellent comedy and beautiful costumes and scenery. The music is almost entirely of a light, catchy, tuneful order, and the placing of the characters in dress suits is a startling and at the same agreeable departure from the usual methods of comic opera. The piece has for its particular star a new comic opera prima donna, Camille Darville, whose voice and whose excellent sonbrette qualities have created a furor in every city between New York and Chicago where the piece has been The opening night at the Chicago Opera-House was one of the most brilliantly successful ones that that theater has ever seen, the theater being crowded to the doors, and the entire performance went with a swing and abandon that without doubt will cause the opera to jump at once into popular success. The company itself is one of the strongest that has been placed in any comic opera and embraces people who in their profession are recognized as the leading lightopera artists of America.

Wallace, Victoria, is second, I was feeling real miserable with dyspepsia, with £8,977, which is due to Carbine's winnings, he having only two winners in his string, and they having won twelve races. Messrs. W. T. Jones and S. G. Cook, both of Victoria, score £6,067 and £5,844 respectively. The former of these two gentlemen won but one race, good that I wonder at myself sometimes that being with Bravo. These figures do not include the recent Melbourne Cup, which would of course bring Mr. Wallace into far greater prominence. Spirit of the Times.

THE BANQUET A BRILLIANT AFFAIR AND A GREAT GATHERING.

Leading Democrats from All Parts of the Country, Including Ex-Prest. Grover Cleveland and Governor-Elect Pattison, Were Present-The Young Men's Democratie Association Said to Have Expended $10,000-Covers Laid for Over Six Hundred.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—The banquet given by the Young Men's Democratic association in the Academy of Music last evening was a brilliant affair and a great political gathering. Leading Democrats from all parts of the country, including ex-President Cleveland and Governor-elect Pattison. were present. Mr. Cleveland arrived at the Broad street station at 1:30 o'clock in the private car of Vice President Thomson. of the Pennsylvania railroad. Among those who accompanied him were Col. D. S. Lamont, E. Ellery Anderson, Dr. J. D. Bryant, George W. Hayward, Stuart G. Nelson, George F. Parker, John W. Young and W. J. Gibson. The party was driven to the Stratford hotel, where lunch was served. Mr. Cleveland received at the association's club house from 3 until 4 o'clock. At 6 o'clock the guests entered the Academy of music and an informal reception was held in the foyer until 6:30, the hour set for the banquet to begin. Ex-President preparation for the banquet, and the scene presented when all were seated at tables has probably never been excelled. Mr. Cleveland occupied the seat of honor, Mr. Bayard being on his right and Governor Pattison at his left. and Governor Pattison at his left.

When ex-President Grover Cleveland rose to respond to his toast, "The principles of True Democracy: they are enduring because they are right, and invincible because they are just," the scene was simply indescribable. The diners and those assembled in the galleries cheered repeatedly, and waived leries cheered repeatedly and waived napkins and handkerchiefs, the speaker remaining several minutes on his feet before he was permitted to proceed. Cheers followed almost every word of

Ex-President Grover Cleveland's Speech. MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN-As I rise to respond to the sentiment which has been assigned to me I cannot avoid the impression assigned to me I cannot avoid the impression made upon my mind by the announcement of the words "True Democracy." I believe them to mean a soher conviction or conclusion touching political topics, which formulated into a political belief or creed, inspires a patriotic performance of the duties of citionarchine. Lemesteries that the principles of the words "True Democracy." I believe them to mean a sober conviction or conclusion touching political topics, which formulated into a political belief or creed, inspires a patriotic performance of the duties of citizenship. I am satisfied that the principles of this belief or creed are such as underlie our free institutions and that they may be urged upon our fellow countrymen, because in their purity and integrity they accord with the attachment of our people for their government and their country. A creed based upon such principles is by no means discredited because illusions and perversions temporarily cause illusions and perversions temporarily prevent their popular acceptance any more than it can be irretrievably shipwrecked by mistakes made in its name or by its prostitution to ignoble purposes. When illusions are dispelled, when miscenceptions are rectified and when those who guide are consecrated to truth and duty, the ark of the people's safety will still be discerned in the keeping of those

The Principles of True Democracy.

These principles are not uncertain nor oubtful. The illustrious tounder of our party has plainly announced them. They have been re-asserted and followed by a long line of great political leaders and they are quite familiar. They comprise: Equal and exact justice to all men; peace, commerce and onest friendship with all nations-entang ling alliance with none; the support of the state governments in all their rights; the preservation of the general government in its whole constitutional vigor; a jealous care of the right of election by the people; absolute acquiescence in the decisions of the majority; the supremacy of the civil over the military authority; economy in the public expenses; the honest payment of our debts and sacred preservation of the public faith; the encouragement of agriculture, and commerce as its handmaid, and freedom of religion, freedom of the press and freedom of the person. The great president and intrepid Democratic leader whom we especially honor to-night, who never relaxed his strict adherence to the of the rights of the people against all com-ers, found his inspiration and guidance in these principles.

On Entering Upon the Presidency

he declar ed his loyalty to them; in his long and useful incumbency of that great office he gloriously illustrated their value and sufficiency; and his obedience to the doctrines of true democracy at all times during his public career permitted him on his retirement to find satisfaction in the declaration: "At the moment when I surrender my last public trust, I leave this great people prosperous and happy and in full enjoyment of liberty and present and happy and proposed and respected by and peace, and honored and respected by every nation of the world." Parties have present hour, when our party did not exist, active and aggressive and prepared for heroic the sufficiency of the principles of true Democracy for the protection of their rights and the promotion of their piness, in all their present

Diverse Conditions and Surroundings.

There should of course be no suggestio that a departure from the time honored principles of our party is necessary to the attain ment of these object. On the contrary we should constantly congratulate ourselves that our party creed is broad enough to meet any emergency that can arise in the life of a free nation. Thus when we see the functions of government used to enrich a favored few at the expense of the many, and see also its inevitable result in the pinching privation of the poor and the profuse extravagance of the rich; and when we see in operation an unjust tariff which banishes from many humble homes the comforts of life in order that in the palaces of wealth luxury may more abound, we turn to our creel and find that it enjoins "equal and exact justice to all men" Then if we are well grounded in our political faith, we will not be deceived nor will we permit others to be deceived, by any plausible preothers to be deceived, by any plausible pre-text or smooth sophistry excusing the situa-tion. For our answer to them all, we will point to the words which condemn such in-quality and injustice, as we prepare for the encounter with wrong, armed with the weapons of the Democracy. When we see Our Farmers in Distress and know that they are not paying the penalty of slothfulness and mismanagement; when we see their long hours of toil so poorly requited that the money-lender eats out their substance, while for everything they need they pay a tribute to the favorites of govern-mental care, we know that all this is far removed from the "encouragement of agri-culture" which our creed commands. We will not violate our political duty by forgetting how well entitled our farmers are to getting how well entitled our farmers are to our best efforts for their restoration to the independence of a former time and to the rewards of better days. Thave thus far attempted to state some of the principles of true Democracy, and their application to present conditions. Their enduring character and their constant influence upon those who profess our faith have also been suggested. If I were now asked why they have so endured and why they have been invincible, I should reply in the words of the sentiment to which I respond: "They are enduring because they are right, and invincible because they are just." I believe that among our people the ideas which endure and which inspire warm attachment and devotion, are those having some elements which appeal to the moral sense. appeal to the moral sense.

When Men Are Satisfied that a principle is morally right, they become its adherents for all time. There is some-times a discouraging distance between what our fellow countrymen believe and what they do, in such a case; but their action in accordance with their belief may always be confidently expected in good time. A government for the people and by the people is everlastingly right. We are permitted to contemplate to night the latest demonstration of the people's appreciation of the right and of the ple's appreciation of the right, and of the acceptance they accord to Democratic doctrine when honestly presented. In the campaign which has just closed with such glorious results, while party managers were anticipating the issue in the light of the conanticipating the issue in the light of the continued illusion of the people, the people themselves were considering the question of right and justice. They have spoken, and the Democracy of the land rejoice. In the signs of the times and in the result of their late state campaign the Democracy of Pennsylvania must find hope and inspiration. Nowhere has the sensitiveness of the people on questions involving right and wrong been better illustrated than here. At the head of your state government there will soon stand a disciple of true Democracy, elected by voters disciple of true Democracy, elected by voters who would have the right and not the wrong

When Their Consciences were Touched. Though there have existed bere conditions and influences not altogether favorable to an unselfish apprehension of the moral attributes of political doctrine, I believe that if these features of the principles of true Democracy are persistently advocated, the time will speedily come when, as in a day, the patriotic hearts of the people of your great common-wealth will be stirred to the support of our cause. It remains to say that in the midst of our rejoicing and in the time of party hope and expectation, we should remember that the way of right and justice should be followed as a matter of duty and regardless of immediate success. Above all things let us not for a moment forget that grave responsi-bilities await the party which the people trust; and let us look for guidance to the principles of true Democracy, which are enduring because they are right, and invincible be cause they are just."

The Joint Session Found a Few Minor Changes in the Vote of the L st Election-An Important Bill. COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 9. - The joint ses sion to canvass the vote of the last election occupied most of Thursday. Lieutenant Governor Marquis found a few minor changes in the vote, which resulted as follows: Daniel J. Ryan, 363,548; Thad E. Cromley, 352,579; M. C. Lockwood, 23,837; Ezekiel T. Curtis, 470. Mr. Clapp, of Geauga county, introduced an important bill in the house relative to taxation of mortgages and lands. The bill provides when the owner of mortgaged real estate shall pay the tax thereon, he shall receive a receipt from the county auditor for the amount which he paid on the per cent. of the property represented by value of the mortgage. Upon presentation to the owner of the mortgage the receipt shall be taken by the latter as payment upon the principal of the debt in amount of the face value. This

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

PERFECT HARMONY NOW EXISTS BETWEEN ALL INTERESTS.

Every Effort Being Made to Nationalise the Exposition-Questions of Site and Buildings Weti Under Way-Managers Will Not be Satisfied Unless They Eclipse the Paris Exposition in Every Way-President Harrison Deeply Interested in the Exposition.

Washington, Jan. 9. - Ex-Senator Palner, president of the commission; Mr. George R. Davis, director general, and Mr. M. H. Handy, promoter general of the World's Columbian exposition, had a conference with the president yesterday afternoon. Director General Davis told the president that perfect harmony now existed between all interests, and that the national commission and the local management are in entire accord. They were proceeding with the organization as rapidly as possible, and every effort was being made to nationalize the exposition by the appointment of the very best men from all parts of the country to take charge of the several departments. The questions as to site and buildings are well under way toward settlement, and the directory has no doubt that everything will be in readiness by the time fixed for the opening of the exposition. A board of architects has just been appointed for the preparation of the necessary plans and specifications, the cities of New York, Boston, Chicago and Kansas City being represented on the board by Architects of Recognized Ability. Mr. Davis said that the managers of the fair would not be satisfied unless they eclipse the Paris exposition in every way. The army and naval offi-cers appointed as special commissioners to the South American countries had received their final instructions, and were now thoroughly informed as to the details of their duties and would soon leave for their designated fields. Agents were already in other foreign countries, were already in other foreign countries, and everything was being done to secure a representative exhibit from all parts of the world. President Harrison said he had the deepest interest in the exposition, and promised his heartiest co-operation to make it worthy of the country. The fair officials subsequently had interviews with Secretary Blaine, Secretary Windom and Attorney General Miller in regard to the government's exhibit at the fair. ment's exhibit at the fair.

Mrs. Cleveland the Chief Guest at a Dinne Given by George W. Childs.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.-Mrs. Grover Cleveland attended a breakfast given in her honor at 12:30 o'clock yesterday by John C. Bullitt, at his residence 125 South Twenty-second street. This evening Mrs. Cleveland will be the chief guest at a dinner given by Mr. George W. Childs at his city residence. Later in the evening she will probably attend a ball given by Mrs. Frazier in the foyer of the academy. During the day ex-President Cleveland will be given a breakfast by Mr. L. Clarke Davis, of the Public Ledger. The gentlemen who will join Mr. Davis in doing honor to the ex-president will be Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, Hon. John E. Russell, of Massachusetts; Hon. Robert E. CYCLONE IN TEXAS.

Houses Blown Down, a Child Killed and Four Persons Badly Hurt.

SHERMAN, TEX., Jan. 9.-A cyclone passed east of this town Wednesday Several houses were blown down and an infant was killed and four adults seriously wounded. John Schmidt was blown over a barb wire fence. He seized the wire as he passed and his hand was almost torn off. Household goods are scattered about for miles and the loss is great. Further search may reveal many dead bodies. Yoakum and other points report that a hurricane and a high wind raged all night, with heavy rain. A Yoakum dispatch says: About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon a cyclone passed about two and one-half miles west of Yoakum, destroying three houses, unrooting trees and carrying away haystacks.

HATFIELD-M'COY VENDETTA.

Trouble Again Breaks Out Between These Notorious Families.

Louisville, Jan. 9.—The Hatfield-McCoy vendetta, which has been quiet for some time, has broken out again in Logan county, W. Va., near the Kentucky line. In a fight on Harts creek between adherents of the respective fac-tions, six men were killed. The in-formant, who lives in Logan county, was unable to give the names of any of the killed or to say which faction lost most heavily in the battle.

A Fireman's Peculiar Accident. PITTSBURG, Jan. 9.—William Johnson, a fireman on the Pittsburg and Western railroad, met with a peculiar and serious accident at Millvale. He was filling the headlight on his engine, and in some manner got oil on his hair, and it was accidentally ignited from his torch. His hair was all burned off, and he was terribly scarred about the fore-head.

Honse Committee on Elections. WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The house com mittee on elections will endeavor to hold its first meeting of this session on Tuesday next for the purpose of disposing of the contested election case of Eaton against Phean, from Tennessee. There may be some difficulty in securing the presence of a q at the meeting. ence of a quorum of the committee

St. PAUL. MINN., Jan. 9.—The deadlock in the lower house of the state legislature was broken yesterday afternoon by the withdrawal of the Democrat candidate and the election of Champlin, the Alliance candidate. TANK EXPLOSION.

A Lighted Torch Thrust Into it to See How Much Oil Remained.

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 9.—Abner Bell. myer and E. T. Henderson, Baltimore and Ohio railroad employes, were engaged in pumping coal oil from one tank car to another, and when they thought it was about empty one of them care-lessly thrust a lighted torch down in the tank to see how much oil remained. The gas ignited instantly, and exploded with a report that was heard ten miles away. Both men were blown fifty feet away and died within a short time.

Columbus, O., Jan. 9.—Representative Hunt, attorney of C. H. Whiting, indicted for grand larceny and receiving stolen goods, filed a motion for leave to file a petition in error in the supreme court. There is considerable romance in the case. While Whiting, who is a married man, was at Fremont Miss Eva West fell in love with him and eloped, taking about $140 and a diamond ring. When arrested he had the stolen goods in his possession. The jury found Whiting not guilty on the charge of grand larceny, but guilty as to receiving stolen goods. The circuit court sustained the verdict of the common pleas court, which it is now sought to have reversed by the court of final record.

Keeps Secretary Ryan Guessing. COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 9.—The Wilson & Hughes Stone company, the Halderman Stone company and the Ohio Stone company, of Cleveland, applied for consolidation as one company. It is the first time the point has been raised during the administration of Secretary Ryan. The application was refused by him on the grounds that the statutes do not provide for such amalgamation.

Escaped from the Penitentiary. COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 9.—Three prisoners, night men in the enameling shop, escaped from the Ohio prison yesterday by scaling the front wall by means of a ladder. They were Earl Porter, of Belmont county, serving a three years' sentence; Michael Harding, of Cuyahoga county, four years, and Henry Post, Franklin county, one year. The men are still at large.

Married Twice in One Day. PAULDING; O., Jan. 9.—Counie Ragan and Miss Delia Hebenthal, leading society people of Paulding, were married twice in one day. The groom is a Catholic and the bride is a Methodist. They were first married by a Methodist minister and later, at Toledo, by a Catholic priest.

TO ESCAPE A VETO.

The Bond Feature Must be Retained in the Financial Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The senate is generally agreed to press an early vote on the pending financial legislation, and the matter will probably be concluded this week. Influences are at work to harmonize on a compromise measure which will include the $200,000,000 2 per cent. bond amendment. This feature is advocated by the president and Secretary Windom, and if it is incorporated in a bill providing for the moderate increas receive the indorsement of the president. Should the bond feature be stricken out and the silver advocates carry free coinage, as is anticipated, the result will be that everything will fall either in the house or at the executive mansion.

THE DOORS BARRICADED.

Gov. Thayer in the Executive Office with a Company of Militia on Guard.

LINCOLN, NEB., Jan. 9.—At 8 o'clock last evening Governor-elect Boyd called on Governor Thayer and was informed that the latter would not give up the office, on the ground that Boyd was not a citizen of the United States and was therefore not eligible. Governor Thayer, has barricaded the executive office and remains inside with policemen and a company of militia on guard. It is impossible to reach him to ascertain his purposes, but it is understood that he will remain governor, if pos-sible, until all questions affecting his successor are settled.

The Turner Letter a Forgery.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Representative Turner, of Kansas, when asked last night about the letter published purporting to have been written by offering to give $5,000 to Mr. McGrath in the event of his (Turner's) election to succeed Senator Ingalls said: "The letter referred to is a forgery pure and simple. I am inclined to think it was written from here by a disappointed, vindictive office seeker, who planned to throw the letter into the camp of the enemy knowing that it would be published. I hope to be able to trace it

Another Failure at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—Clement H Moore, wholesale stationer at No. 83 Market street, failed yesterday, making preference aggregating $30,000 to Frederick Bergner & Co., of Baltimore The Morgan Envelope company, of Springfield, Mass., and Wm. Otis Day, also of Springfield, Mass. It is understood that Mr. Moore's liabilities are $70,000, with assets about the same.

To Starve Himself for Money. DETROIT, Jan. 9.—Arthur W. Willmeau yesterday signed papers with a local museum to fast for thirty days. He is pledged to abstain from all food and liquids except Croton water. If he is successful he is to receive $1,000. If he prolongs the fast sixteen days he gets $1,500. The fast will begin Jan. 12.

President and Vice President at a Theatre WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The president and Mrs. Harrison, Vice President Morton and friends, Count Arco Vally, the German minister, and guests occupied boxes at the New National theatre last night to witness the performance of E. H. Sothern in The Master of Wood arrow. The theatre was crowded to the doors. Mr. Sothern was called before the curtain and expressed thanks for the hearty reception at the hands of such a brilliant assemblage.

THE SENATE AND HOUSE.

General Debate on the Financial Bill to Cease Tuesday and a Vote to be Had Wednesday-Other Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.-In the senate Thursday, Mr. Platt gave notice that he would, at the earliest possible moment, call up the copyright bill for consideration. Mr. Allison said that if the chairman of the committee on agriculture (who was necessarily absent) did not, at an early day, call up the Conger lard bill, he (Allison) would himself do so. House bills were passed as follows:

Appropriating $75,000 for a public building at Akron, O., (with an amendment); appropriating $400,000 for enlarging the proposed public building at Savannah, Ga. The finance bill was then taken up and Mr. Stewart asked unanimous consent that a vote be taken on the bill and amendments at 4 o'clock Saturday. After a long discussion unanimous consent was given to a proposition made by Mr. Ingalls, to the effect that general debate should close at the adjournment on Tuesday next; that then ten minutes discussion shall be in order, and that The Final Vote on the Bill and amendments shall be taken before the adjournment on Wednesday next. Hr. Turpie addressed the senate in support of Mr. Stewart's amendment for the free coinage of silver; and in the course of his remarks declared that it was impossible that the senator from Ohio (Mr. Sherman) could take a fair, impartial, judicial view of that amendment. Mr. Call next addressed the senate, directing his remarks principally to the danger threatening the country from the enormous wealth now in the hands of a comparatively small number of families. In conclusion he declared that he would with all his heart vote for Stewart's amendment. The bill was then laid aside. The vote passing the house bill for a public building at Davenport, Ia., was, on motion of Mr. Vest, reconsidered, amended and again passed. After a brief executive session the senate, at 4:35, adjourned.

Shipping Bill in the House. The house passed the bill authorizing the issuance of certificates of service to telegraph operators who were with the Union army during the rebellion. Mr. Cutcheon moved that the house go into committee of the whole on the army appropriation bill. Rejected. The house en went into committee of the whole on the shipping bill. Mr. Fithian, of Illinois, made an argument in opposition to the measure and inveighed against the system of subsidies. Mr. Wheeler, of Michigan, spoke briefly in favor of the bill. Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, said that it was unfortunate for a question of this character that it should be of this character that it should be launched upon the house by an assault upon one of the great political parties of the country. It was impossible for one party to be all wrong and the other all right to the condemnation of this all right-so the condemnation of this as a Republican measure was weak.

After a lengthy discussion favoring the bill the committee arose and the house adjourned.

TO Chush THE REDSKINS.

Soldiers Are Pre sing Upon the Savages from the Rear and Flanks.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 9n-Afraid-of-His-Horses, the most powerful chief in the great Sioux nation, arrived here yesterday in charge of Capt. O'Connell, The chief has never opposed the government. An effort will be made to have him go to the hostile camp with a last plea for the savages to surrender, but it is probable that his coming is too late, for Col. Corbin has announced the movement of the troops upon the hostile Indian village. The soldiers are pressing upon the savages from the rear and flanks. The mouth of the funnel is Pine Ridge, and it is here that the redskins will be driven and crushed. The hostiles are nearly one thousand strong and sent word that they will not surrender until the soldiers were taken to the railroad. Preparations for receiving the hostiles in their rush through the funnel are now completed. A trench has been dug west of the school house, with bags of dirt piled up for breast works. A Hotchkiss gun, masked with saplings, has been planted in such a position that it can sweep the valley in all directions. Fortifications on the hillsides to the north and east are also finished, and rifle pits have been dug everywhere.

Here is a physician's advice to women when they are feeling "tired to death." Don't eat heartily. Drink a cup of tea and eat a cracker or two, or beat up an egg in half a pint of milk, sweeten and flavor to taste, and drink it. This will strengthen you, and will not make any demands upon your weary stomach or digestive organs.
And another thing, do not rise early in the morning and trot all over the house doing you eat anything. Weather Forecast.

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

TOPICS SURE TO INTEREST WIDE AWAKE MEN AND WOMEN.

A Tap Which Permits the Gradual Release of the Liquid Without Any of the Sudden Rush So Common to the Or-

The tap shown in the accompanying cut is the invention of a Frenchman who claims that it is not only cheap but very useful. It permits the gradual release of the liquid without any of the sudden rush which ordinary taps or bungs are apt to do.

The plug is covered with india rubber and follows a double curve, which reduces the force of the liquid, and the india rubber removes any incrustation from the bung hole into which it may be fitted, and closes the aperture effectively without force. In order to guard against a contingency, which, however, is an unlikely one, the "envelope" (casing) has been made in two pieces, one of which can never be displaced; the head only can be moved, and it is easily detached. The plug adapts itself to the aperture as a button to the buttonhole. Ice has no effect upon the aperture of the barrel, thanks to the india rubber covering of the plug.

Friction.

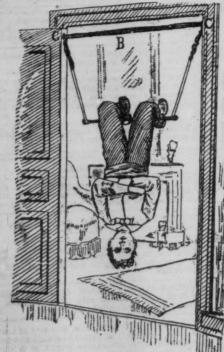

Friction is derived from the Latin frico, to rub, and expresses the resistance to motion which arises from uneven surfaces. It is a passive resistance and depends upon the forces which keep the bodies together. Thus a train running upon a smooth iron rail would never be able to proceed but for frietion, which gives the necessary purchase or grip to the wheel and rail in contact. No surface is perfectly smooth, for we must push a body upon the smoothest surface we possess. Friction tends to resist motion always, and is the cause of a great loss of power in mechanics, though it is employed to stop motion by certain appliances such as breaks and drags, for gliding friction is always greater than rolling friction. But without friction most structures would fall to pieces and all forward motion would cease. So, though it is an inconvenient force to overcome, we could not do with-

Ink from Used Cotton Waste. Until recently cotton waste has been cleaned from the oil and reused, the grease being considered as useless and thrown away. It has been found, however, says The Paper Makers' Circular, that the oil thus destroyed can be made, after very simple treatment, to yield first class printing ink, and it has been ascertained that one ton of this spent waste yields about four teen hundredweight of oil, from which ink of an improved quality and a reduced price is manufactured. The refuse is placed in steam chambers, and a solution of bisulphate of carbon, on being pumped into vessels, disengages the oil and grease, and after traversing several heated coppers the grease is soon converted into the varnish from which printing ink is made.

The Trapeze and Swing.

Attention is called to the simple trapeze for children, which can easily be fitted up in any house between two rooms. The advantages of gymnastics for the young are incontestable, but practically there are difficulties in the way, particularly for those living in towns. In the cut is illustrated an ingenious way by which either trapeze or swing can be suspended between the doorposts of a room without nails or any unsightly wood supports.

The bar B seen in the cut is of wood, terminating in screws inclosed in the grooves of the wood at the extremity of which india rubber disks are fixed, C, C. When the bar is placed between the side posts of the open door and with the india rubber in contact with the sides, the bar B is vigorously screwed in the direction of the arrow, and this motion is transmitted to the india rubber disks which press against the door, and the apparatus remains fixed. The trapeze cords or the swing ropes can be fastened to the bar with hooks, and the solidity and safety of the bar may be tested by putting heavy weights upon the ropes before venturing upon the swing or tra-Even violent exercises may be inpeze. Tarred Bricks.

Bricks impregnated with tar are said to be hard, durable and perfectly waterproof. The impregnation, according to The American Analyst, is extremely simple-ordinary bricks, or, still better, machine brick being boiled in coal tar for twenty-four hours. Bricks thus treated are claimed to be especially well adapted for paving working rooms, depots, etc. They are also recommended for the construction of sewers, cesspools, the insulation of foundation walls and similar purposes.

To Prevent Rust.

It is well known that the rusting of bright steel goods is due to the precipitation of the moisture in the air upon it. This may be obviated by keeping the air nding the goods dry, and a saucer of powdered quicklime placed in an ordinary wease will usually suffice to prevent the rusting of the cutlery exhibited therein, asserts The Jewelers' Review.

ALL AROUND THE HOUSE

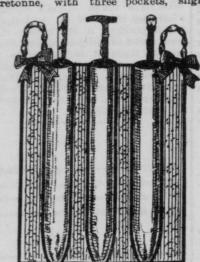

Two Schemes for Decorating the Dinner Table in True Artistic Style. In regard to table service there are, according to Decorator and Furnisher, two courses open to us—to use untinted china with flowers and with or without a scarf down the center, or colored china and little or no decoration. A rim of gold or of some deep shade may be considered in perfect taste when it harmonizes with the flowers. Thus green or gold may be used with any variety of flowers, because green is their background and a line of gilt is never inharmonious. But to set a table with deep blue or richly painted china of any kind and then profusely deck it with flowers is, says the authority already mentioned, to violate those canons of art which are founded on the laws of nature. The reason is evident. Either have the flowers by themselves or the painted pictures; together they kill each other. And that is why there is a return to the old fashioned white china, which is never out of keeping with anything in the room.

With white goes any kind of decoration. Table scarfs are still in vogue. They may be made of crimson plush covered with open work embroidery of rich lace, long and narrow in shape, as they have been for some time. On this, on festive occasions, set fancy dishes of flowers-crimson or white-bonbons, conserves in crystal and candelabra in fancy shades. The center piece, not too high, might be a large mass of crimson roses or carnations, relieved with greenery, and, if desired, with white flowers of the same species.

Where the housekeeper has access to plants and flowers, either wild or cultivated, the decorations may be often varied. In winter, ivy and a sprig of the rose geranium for a center piece are a delight to the eye. It is a mistake to suppose that many flowers are needful to make a fitting show. Have a plentiful supply of greenery (which can be kept fresh by frequent changes of the water, into which drop a little powdered charcoal), and half a dozen flowers inserted into its midst will make a thing of beauty as long as they last.

One pretty fashion in table decoration is to insert in the center of a loose knot of green silk a cluster of flowers or a spray of lilies or of roses. The stems may be kept fresh in a bowl of water concealed by the silk, which is festooned over a piece of pasteboard, through an aperture of which they pass to reach the fluid. But it is a mixture of the natural and artificial to which many persons object.

Hanging Case for Parasols, Etc. The arrangement shown in the cut is intended to keep parasols, umbrellas, etc., free from dust in the dressing room. The foundation is made either in coutil or stout cretonne, with three pockets, slightly

The Best of Cookies.

If these cookies are properly made no other cookie recipe will ever be used, says
The Housekeeper's Weekly. Cream one cup of butter and two cups of sugar. To this add one teaspoonful of rose water and one pinch of salt. Then sift in sufficient flour to make a very soft dough, in which one teaspoonful of baking powder has been mixed. Be sure that the dough is not stiff, and use neither milk nor water. Flour the bakeboard well, take a piece of dough, and after sprinkling the rolling pin with flour, roll out very quickly as thin as the blade of a knife. Cut some out round and some long shape. Grease a baking pan and fill it with the cakes. The oven must be moderate, and the cakes must be watched closely. They must be taken from the oven before they are colored. They will harden as soon as they leave the pan, and if they are colored the appearance will be spoiled.

Four teacups of sifted flour. One and a half teacups of soft sugar. One teacup of molass

One teacup of butter. Six eggs well beaten, whites and yelks sparately. One teacup of raisins, stoned and chop-

One teacup of currants, washed, picked and dried.

Flavor with grated rind of lemon or with mixed spices.

Beat together the white of one egg with an equal quantity of cold water and teaspoonful of flavoring essence, either lemon or vanilla. When all this is thoroughly mixed, beat into about one pound of icing sugar till it forms a paste stiff enough to handle. Stone the dates; break off pieces of the glace about the size of the date stones, and roll them in the palms of your hands till they are of the same shape. Insert these rolls into the dates, and put them aside in air tight boxes.

For velvet blanc mange use two cupfuls of sweet cream, one-half ounce of gelatine soaked in a little cold water for one hour, one-half cupful powdered sugar, one glassful white wine and flavoring of bitter Heat the cream to boiling, stir in the gelatine and sugar, and when dis-solved take from the fire. Beat until very light, flavor and add the wine, mixing well Pour into molds wet with cold water.

Kerosene in the Laundry. Some laundresses consider kerosene great help in washing, as it lessens the amount of rubbing required. In using it cut one pound of soap fine in sufficient water to form a thick suds; add to this two and one-half tablespoonfuls of kerosene. To every gallon of water stir in a pint of the solution. If any oil appears on the top add more soap and water, then boil the THE WORLD'S FAIR OF 1893.

Rapid Progress of Arrangements With Foreign Nations.

[Special Correspondence.] CHICAGO, Tax M.-With the issue of President Harrison's proclamation inviting the nations of the earth to be represented in Chicago, the World's Columbian exposition assumes for the first time in an official sense an international phase. Not but what the people of a greater portion of both hemispheres are already advised of the fact that the United States is preparing for a world's fair. The Atlantic cable, flashing its daily budget of information from the shores of Columbia to those of Albion; the tons of newspapers and other periodical literature that are weekly carried from New York by the ocean steamships to be distributed far and wide, and the personal advocacy of the tens of thousands of Americans who during the past summer have scattered themselves over continental Europe, have all been part and parcel of one great missionary effort in behalf of the undertaking in which the United States in general and Chicago in particular are so deeply interested. This kind of propaganda, however, while it is good enough for the common people, carries no official weight. Governments are not run by gossip. There are certain forms and certain conditions which must be complied with before the powers that be can indicate any official recognition of the nation's desires. Official communication having thus been established, the department of foreign affairs of the exposition is in a position to go forward with its programme. This includes the addressing of communications to every representative of the United States in diplomatic service abroad, from ministers plenipotentiary to vice consuls, giving them complete information regardng what has been done and what remains to be done, and the printing in five lan-guages and their distribution abroad of the rules and regulations already adopted. Secretary Blaine, moreover, can proceed to enlist the entire force of the state department in the work, while Moses P. Handy whose appointment as chief of the bureau of promotion and publicity has been received with general approval from all parts of the country, may enter upon his duties by correcting the somewhat erroneous im essions that prevail abroad concerning the lack of progress made by the exposi tion by giving the leading journals of Europe and South America a correct account of the present situation, and a state ment of the advantages to be gained by iberal displays of the products of their respective countries.

The board of lady managers, too, proooses to make its influence felt in the foreign field, and among its suggestions that have been received with especial favor is one for the establishment of honorary boards of ladies throughout Europe in order to stimulate public interest among the gentler sex. No less a personage than the Princess of Wales is to be invited to preside over the ladies' board of Great Britain.

Growing out of the publication in this correspondence of the plans which have practically been adopted for the occupancy of Jackson park, there has been a good deal of inquiry relative to the uses to which the Lake Front-that vast expanse of land running from Harrison to Randolph streets, and fringed on the one side by Michigan avenue with its Auditorium hotel, Richelieu, Leland, Art institute and other noted structures, and on the other by the tracks of the Illinois Central, with Lake Michigan beyond - is to be put. Nothing definite on this subject can be properly said for some time to come.

To quote one of the prominent offi cials of the directory, and whose opin ions were expressly asked for this correspondence: "The uncertainties in volved in the legal aspect have prevented progressive action by the directory, and until some settlement is reached between the Illinois Central, the Michigan avenue property owners and a special committee of the board no one can tell what struct ures can be exected on the Lake Front."

It is a question, however, whether this view of the situation, while intended to be conservative, does not verge toward the pessimistic. At all events, there may be no doubt that an agreement will be reached between the apparently conflict ing interests which will enable the city en trance to the fair to compare favorably with the magnitude and grandeur beyond One scheme which has been approved by the joint committee of the property own ers, the directory and the city council contemplates a new right of way for the railroads 300 feet wide and adjoining the present right of way. The tracks are to be lowered to a depth that will permit them to be covered and become a part of the park, and to be reached by stations built after a style that would make them perma nent ornaments to the locality. scheme would allow the World's fair directors to occupy as much ground as they need outside of the new right of way, to make a park of the approach to the build ings, and to locate a magnificent art palace on the present made ground within a stone's throw of the Auditorium.

The whole matter now rests in the hands of the Illinois Central. That corporation must make a definite proposition, upon which the city council and state legisla-ture will pass. Whatever may be agreed upon by these two bodies will be satisfac tory to the directory and the property owners. Meanwhile the delay is not by any means dangerous, for, as President Palmer intimated to President Harrison at their recent interview, the general arrangements are far in advance of the conditions which prevailed two and a half years prior to the opening of the Philadelphia Centen HENRY M HUNT nial.

On a New York "L" Train.

Three men boarded a downtown ele vated train at One Hundred and Sixteenth street the other day. From their conversa tion it could be gathered that one was a resident of New York city, one a visitor from a small middle state town, and the other a Colorado ranchman. At Fifty ninth street a dozen or more boys and girls entered the car with school books under their arms. Two of the girls and four of the boys wore spectacles.

"It seems to me," said the man from the small town, "that there is hardly a sound pair of eyes in the city Nearly everybody wears spectacles, young and old. In my town only the grandfathers and grand mothers have poor eyesight.'

"You never see a pair of spectacles on the plains," said the ranchman "Men of 60 and 70 out there have as good sight as the boys, sometimes better I think the reason must be that they have use for their eyes out there. Here, unless you look straight up into the sky, you are always staring at a brick wall. It hurts my eyes I should go blind here."

"You are right," said the New York man, who happened to be a physician "City eyes have no chance. They need ex ercise—just such exercise as "see of a plainsman get."

GEN. BUTLER'S MEMOIRS. It Seems Likely That They Will Be Published Soon.

[Special Correspondence.] NEW YORK, Im . The vigor displayed by Gen. Butler in his recent lecture on Wendell Phillips suggests that he has entirely recovered his health, so that he will be able to complete his memoirs very soon. With the exception of David Dudley Field, who is some ten years older, Gen. Butler is probably the hardest working man of his years in the country. He is now in his seventy-fourth year, and seems to have overcome the tendency to ill health which a year or two ago seemed to threaten him. He is busy in his professional work, and while he does not live on the cars so much as he did at one time, yet scarcely a month passes when he is not both in Washington and New York, as well as attending to his

Boston law business. To those who do not know what his capacity for continuous and steady work is, nor how admirable are his methods of labor, it would seem impossible that so busy a lawyer should find the time to com pile a large volume of memoirs. But Gen.

BENJAMIN F. BUTLER.

Butler is one of the most methodical of workers, and he understands how to avail himself of all means for lightening the drudgery of work. For many years he has dictated all his correspondence and briefs, and from the time he left the army he possessed in a private secretary named Major a most invaluable assistant.

It is with the aid of secretaries and by an conomy of time that Gen. Butler has already been able to do so much work upon these memoirs. From a money point of view it is believed that the memoirs would be most successful of any written by persons who obtained prominence during the war, excepting Gen. Grant. Butler, unlike all of the others who have had a story to tell of army experiences, had already attained notoriety, and had come in contact with many of the foremost men of the day before the war broke out. His aggressiv personality, his striking audacity, his brillancy and his fear of no man had made his life down to 1861 an experience which, if he tells it with that anecdotal charm in which he talks in private, would read like

He had before the war been in close rela tions with the southern Democratic leaders, knew Jefferson Davis intimately, and was anxious that Davis should be nom inated for president of the United States at the Charleston convention of 1860. Butler was then only 43 years of age, but he had already achieved a national reputation. When the war came on there was a splen did opportunity for his peculiar genius. he tells in his memoirs the story of how he opened a new communication from Wash ington to the north by way of Annapolis, he will tell a story to the public with which he has thrilled many of his friends If he describes how, by the use of a single word, he settled what promised to be a cause of infinite trouble in the early part of the war, as he described it to the present writer, he will furnish a most graphic and entertaining narrative; for it was he who solved what seemed to be an insolvable problem regarding the treatment of runaway slaves by calling them contrabands of war, so that the word contraband came afterward into universal use in describing this class. If he tells how he declined an offer of the vice presidency, tendered to him at Mr. Lincoln's request in the summer of '64, and leclined it with a joke, as he narrated the story to a group of friends at a little dinner in Boston some years ago, he will tell a story both interesting and a most valuable contribution to history. He has already written a very brief account of this scene but in his memoirs he will probably tell it in all its details. Had he accepted that proposition he would have been nominaed, and of course he, instead of Andrew Johnson, would have become presidentan event which would have been of vas consequence to the country.

Gen. Butler has been in some doubt as to whether he should tell some of the inside history of the great impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson, of which he was one of the managers. If he decides in the affirmative, as he probably will, a very important chapter will be added to the history of that ensational event.

Gen. Butler's experience in politics in congress, his almost whimsical canvass for governor of Massachusetts, when he was defeated, and the other highly interesting canvass which he personally conducted and which resulted in his election, produced many remarkable adventures, and the anecdotes which he is able to tell thereof will not only be interesting in them selves but will reveal side lights upon the character of public men which will be in-teresting and of value to history. There are some of his experiences which will be sure to give rise to contention, and that is something which no man who has ever lived more greatly enjoys than Gen. Butler. He is a fair fighter, but he is a hard one. Some idea can be obtained of the controversies likely to arise from the fact that in a speech a year or two ago he inti-mated that Admiral Porter on one occasion had shown cowardice during a naval fight, and a most heated controversy followed. Probably nobody will take greater delight in the publication of these volume than Gen. Butler himself, and it has pleased him to learn from publishers that public interest in his memoirs is sure to be so great that they feel authorized in offer ing him very large pecuniary temptations for the privilege of publishing the book.

E. J. EDWARDS. United States Senators Swindled.

A resident of Baltimore came to grie the other day after having reaped a harvest of five dollar bills from members of the United States senate. His plan was to write a contemplated victim saying that his new born child had been named in his (the victim's) honor, and suggesting a small present. Vice President Morton con tributed a silver cup, but his colleagues contented themselves with cash donations. In due course Senator Manderson was com municated with. He suspected a swindle, and an investigation proved that his doubts were well founded. The thirty odd sena-torial "godfathers" are now annoyed, to say the least.

LATE LOCAL NEWS.

An Improved Service.

Something over a month ago the Inde, pendent Company gave the necessary orders for a pony delivery service, which could not be put into immediate effect, owing to the impossibility of obtaining horse and cart. These deficiencies will be supplied within a few days, and the service about to be inaugurated, will, service about to be inaugurated, will, atter the first few days, be of advantage to all of The Independent's suburban readers. The idea originated with the postoffice department, which divides the compact portion of delivery cities into foot-carriers' routes and appoints a cart tistic manner by the whole club, with service for the outskirts. By adopting this plan, also, it is the expectation of this paper not only to reach its present distant patrons more promptly, but to enlarge the field of its operations. The distribution of papers in all provided the captivated the audience. It makes the whole club, with banjos and guitars, followed by the jubiletes song, "Hear dem Bells," which took well, and was loudly encored. "Swind Dose Gates Ajar" was given as an encore.
